'Focus On Faith' Will Be Theme For Religious Emphasis Week

"Focus on Faith" will be the theme on Religious Emphasis Week, which begins Sunday, Feb. 24, and lasts through Thursday, Feb. 28.

During the week, 10 speakers will be in charge of afternoon forums, academic assemblies, dormitory, sorority, and fraternity bull sessions, and will speak at club and organization meetings.

Dr. W. L. Matthews Jr., of the College of Law, is chairman of the week. Co-chairmen are Pat Lancaster, Home Economics senior, and Kurt Golttermann, a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Between 75 and 100 students have been working on separate planning committees for the week since last spring.

Opens Week From Sunday

Religious Emphasis Week will open at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 24, in Memorial Hall. Charles T. Leber, head of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, will speak on "The Only Days We Have."

A reception in the lounge of the Home Economics Building will follow the Sunday night meeting. All the speakers for the week will be present, and all students may attend and meet them.

From Monday through Thursday, afternoon forums will be held at 4 o'clock. An additional forum will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday. They will be devoted to discussion of questions of student interest.

"These forums will not be the usual type, with discussions of dating, whether to smoke and drink, and similar questions which have been discussed over and over," Ann Carson, chairman of the Forum Committee, explained. "They will discuss basic questions for which religion is supposed to have an answer."

Academic assemblies will be held in the College of Law, the College of Agriculture, the College of Engineering, and the College of Education. Three assemblies will be held in the College of Arts and Sciences, one in humanities, one in social sciences, and one in physical sciences.

Each dormitory and Greek letter organization will have a speaker to supervise bull sessions during the week.

Dr. Robert Burns, pastor of the Peachtree Christian Church in Atlanta, Ga., will speak at the closing convocation. This meeting, which will be a dedication service, will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in Memorial Hall.

Programs to All Programs will be distributed to all students next week, and posters have already been placed on the campus, the co-chairmen said.

During the week, a book display will be presented in the SUB. Books will be on sale on topics as related to religion.

Students serving on committees for the week will hold a retreat from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 24, and breakfasts at 7 o'clock each morning during the week in the SUB.

Besides Mr. Leber and Dr. Burns, other speakers will be T. B. (Scotty) Cowan, minister of Everybody's Church in Lexington; J. Frederick Miller, on the national staff of the Student YMCA; Arthur C. McGiffert, president of Chicago Theological Seminary; Raymond John Seeger, chief of the Aeroballistic Research Department of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at Silver Springs, Md.; Father Gerald Boucher, Carlsile, a member of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer; Rabbi Martin Terley, Louisville; Dale Moody, from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; and Miss Rosalie Oakes, regional secretary of the Student YMCA, and formerly secretary of the University YMCA.

Frat's Low Grades May Cost Privileges

Action to improve the appearance of fraternity standings on campus was discussed at the Tuesday night meeting of the Interfraternity Council, after President Bob Cayce reported the Faculty is considering a plan to take social privileges away from fraternities with averages below the all-men's average.

Cayce announced the pledge standing of fraternities for the first semester of this school year was 1.04, and the highest pledge class, that of Farm House, averaged 1.59.

The Faculty is considering the revocation of social privileges in an effort to influence fraternities to improve their scholarship. Cayce added. Such action would take away rights of fraternities to have parties, to pledge, to rush, or to have other activities if they failed to reach the all-men's average.

Dean A. D. Kirwan said this week the Faculty proposed at its last meeting to have a committee look into scholarship, both in fraternities and sororities and in residence halls. He did not mention whether the committee would consider revoking social privileges.

Study Classes Announced Paul Holleman, Delta Tau Delta, chairman of the IFC Scholarship Committee announced classes on how to study would be held for pledges Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in 203 Frazee Hall. The classes, held at 4 p.m. each day, will be taught by the Personnel Office, directed by Dr. Lysic Croft.

Although the classes are primarily for pledges, Leslie L. Martin of the Personnel Office said he doubted that they would "check to see that only pledges are present, and probably some of the activities will attend to check up on their own studies."

Mr. Martin explained that any student may have the same type of help by coming to the Personnel Office in the Administration Building.

Give Individual Help After the four class hours, students who need individual help in setting up study schedules, studying for examinations, taking notes, or other study problems may make appointments with the Personnel Office for further aid.

Cayce expressed the hope that fraternities would endeavor at once to raise their standings, adding that Dean Kirwan had received several letters from parents who were reluctant to send their children to UK because of the low fraternity standings.

The Scholarship Committee offered a creed to show the relationship of fraternities and scholarship, and also gave fraternity representatives a list of suggestions for improvement of fraternity scholarship.

List Suggestions The suggestions were:

1. Require pledges to post all test grades in a conspicuous place.
2. Have the scholarship chairman of each fraternity post the standings of all members in a conspicuous place. Rank the members from highest to lowest and underline in red all men who made below the all-men's average.
3. Enforce quiet hours in the house.
4. Do not be too reluctant to drop pledges and suspend activities who continually fail to make a standing.

Check Grades 5. Before a fraternity pledges a man, make a close check on his high school grades and his scores on the entrance exams. Make sure a man is able to do college work before he is pledged.
6. Make sure that all members who drop courses or who drop out of school are listed as withdrawals instead of failures.

Second Semester Registration Shows University Enrollment Of More Than 5000 Students

Parking Rules Announced

The Student Government Association has announced that the following rules are in effect under the present administration:

Permits are issued, respectively, to the physically handicapped, faculty and staff, and commuters, according to their distance from home, as long as parking space is available. Special hardship cases may receive permits by consulting with the SGA Judiciary Committee. This committee also hears all violation appeals.

Any person parking on the campus without a parking permit will receive a traffic ticket.

Traffic tickets cost $1.00, provided the ticket is paid or reported to the SGA secretary within one week of the date that the ticket is issued. After the first week the ticket costs $2.00.

If six or more tickets are issued against a person and he does not pay his fine or report his ticket, the sixth ticket and every ticket thereafter will be $5.00 each.

All fines are to be paid to the secretary of SGA in the Administration Building.

Grade Standings To Be Compiled In Dean's Office

More than 5000 students have enrolled for the second semester at the University, the Public Relations Office reports. Deadline for registration was last Tuesday.

Total enrollment was 5,107 at press time, with students registering later than Tuesday afternoon not counted. This figure includes 4,751 students on campus, 131 in the College of Pharmacy in Louisville, and 225 at the Northern Extension Center in Covington.

This semester's enrollment shows a decrease over last semester's total of 5,718. The previous year's enrollment for second semester was 5,700.

Standings Being Compiled

Grade standings for the first semester are being compiled in the offices of Dean A. D. Kirwan and Dean Sarah B. Holmes. A completed list is expected to be ready by the first of March.

According to Miss Maple Moore, assistant registrar, the average standing of previous years has been between a 1.3 and a 1.4 for the men, with the women making a slightly better average.

Four new foreign students enrolled at the University this semester. They represent the countries of Cuba, Turkey, Italy, and Arabia.

Law Journal Editors Named By Faculty

Tulkoff, Lowery Appointed To Staff

The College of Law faculty has announced the mid-year elections to official positions on the Editorial Board of the Kentucky Law Journal, legal publication of the College.

Myer S. Tulkoff of Ashland succeeds William Deep of Lebanon as business manager, and Jack Lowery of Georgetown was elected note editor, a position formerly held by Hugh Evans, Corbin.

Mr. Deep plans to open offices for the general practice of law in Lebanon after passing the bar examination. Mr. Evans, in competition with many candidates from all over the South, has been appointed to a legal position in the Legislative Council of the U.S. Senate.

By action of the faculty of the College of Law, two second year men, Charles M. Carnes, Lexington, and William R. Ramey, Flatwoods, have been added to the Editorial Board.

Five first year students with high scholastic standings have been invited to compete as apprentice members. They are Thomas K. Lewis, Ashland; John T. Ballantine, Louisville; Dianne McKaig, Oaks Grove; James S. Kostas, Fort Mitchell; and Theodore M. Dunn, Smithland.

Appointment to the Editorial Board of the Kentucky Law Journal is based upon high scholarship and the ability to do creditable professional writing.

The Journal, which is published four times a year, includes articles by law school teachers, practicing attorneys, and judges, as well as comments on recent cases and notes on legal topics by student members of the staff.

Deans Meet To Plan Ag Short Courses

A committee representing the southern group of the Deans of Agriculture will meet in the Agriculture Building today to make plans and develop a program for a conference on short courses in agriculture.

After the plans are drawn up at UK, a conference will be held at Louisiana State University the second week in April. The purpose of the conference to be held at L.S.U. is to stimulate interest in short courses — courses of less than one semester with no credit, usually from three to six weeks, and to help the southern states to develop better programs in short courses.

L. J. Horlacher, associate dean of agriculture, said that short courses are not being offered in the southern states, including UK, to the extent that they are being offered at other colleges.

This program, if successful, will make it possible for southern colleges to offer a program in short courses comparable to that offered in other states.

Those who plan to attend the UK meeting include Dr. Robert Van Duyn, Kellig Foundation; Dr. Maurice Seny, chairman of the department of education at the University of Chicago, former dean at UK; Dean N. D. Peacock, College of Agriculture, University of Tennessee; Dean C. H. Bostian, North Carolina State; and Dean V. C. Freeman, University of Purdue.

UK Students Fail To Recognize 'Declaration Of Independence'

By Linda Patteson

February may be American History Month in Kentucky, backed by the full authority of a proclamation by Gov. Lawrence B. Wetherby, but the Declaration of Independence took quite a beating this week when it was taken out on the campus for an airing by two Kernel reporters.

Around campus hangouts and in the hallways a typewritten copy of the first two paragraphs of the Declaration was handed to students selected at random. Only one-third recognized the paragraphs and only one-third of this enlightened minority was positive. From there on, history was made and remade—and declared with conviction.

Over half of the students interrogated were quite sure that they had the correct answer although the correct answer to them was, for example, the Gettysburg Address, in order "to develop the alert citizen we will need in tomorrow's world."

United States, Washington's Inaugural Address, Washington's Farewell Address, the Communist Manifesto, and the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

One student's answer ranged from a speech by Jefferson Davis, to a Revolutionary War speech, and finally to the Gettysburg Address.

Said one student, "It's from nothing; it's all about nature and stuff." One student who knew that it was the Declaration of Independence assumed a lofty air of superiority when his girl-friend was having a hard time identifying it, and gave him a clue, "John Hancock wrote it." He gave no credit to Thomas Jefferson for his political treatise nor to Thomas Paine, much of whose political philosophy Jefferson adopted.

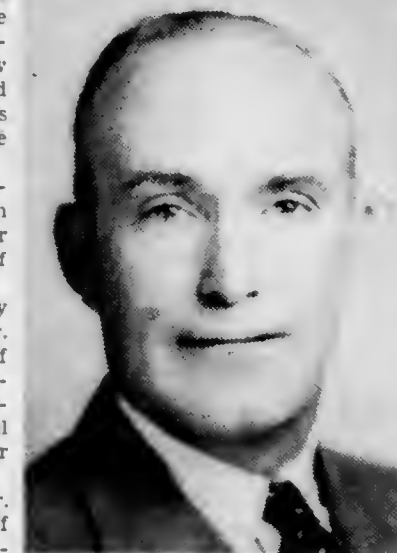

Another person answered, "It sounds like a lot of malarkey to me. It sounds like something out of the South Pacific. When something like that is taken out of its entirety, it can often be misconstrued," yet the opening paragraphs of the Declaration of Independence are something which every American school-boy should know.

One Arts and Sciences student thought it was from the Bible. Another asked, "Where was the thing dug up?" Still another accused the surveyors of making it up and trying to stick him.

"It sounds like something Abraham Lincoln had something to do with," was another reply. Two political science graduate students gave as their first answer the Preamble, then upon further consideration said that it was the Declaration of Independence.

These answers and many more like them demonstrate the need for an American History Month, not only in February, but during every month of the year.

Fraternities Back On Spot For Unusual Reason: Grades

Fraternities are on the spot again for the usual reason—poor scholarship. This time it is the pledge standing for the past semester that is drawing faculty and administration fire. And again the fraternities can offer little defense for the figure, 1.04 this time, that represents the cumulative average of their pledges.

Poor fraternity scholarship has long been a sore point with the faculty members at UK and they have indicated that they intend to take action of their own to correct the situation unless the fraternities do a rapid job of improvement on their own.

They can hardly be blamed, but the plan they now have under consideration for taking social privileges from fraternities which do not maintain an average equal to the all men's average will not solve the problem. True, it may give the fraternities an incentive for improvement, but the actual work will still have to be done by the individual organizations.

If the IFC is interested in maintaining what little self-government fraternities now have, it should take immediate and positive action. The basis for this action has been laid in the issuing of a committee report consisting of eight suggestions for the improvement of fraternity scholarship (see page 1 story). Suggestions, however, are a long way from being positive action and no one knows this better than the IFC. Suggestions for the improvement of scholarship have been made by the IFC time and time again in the past with little or no improvement resulting. To actually improve scholarship the IFC will have to see that their suggestions become enforced rules.

Students, and Greeks in particular, complain bitterly about excessive administration control. But when they are given the opportunity to govern themselves they are liable to do such a slipshod, half-hearted job that you can hardly blame the administration for not giving them more power. The IFC is no exception.

In the past we have been criticized by students and administration both for being "anti-student government." Nothing could be further from the truth. What we are actually against is misuse of the power of self government by the students entrusted with it. This misuse can only result in the withdrawal of that power.

What the fraternities are actually facing is something much more serious than the temporary loss of social privileges. If they do not take proper action now they may lose the last vestiges of self-government.

Brotherhood Is Key To Basic Problem

Sunday marks the opening of the annual "Brotherhood Week" sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Just what does this have to do with UK students, you ask. Not much really—just their future.

This is a day and age of modernization and mind-staggering mechanical achievements, but man's basic problem of living together peacefully has only become more difficult as a result of these achievements. For this problem is not one that can be solved by mechanical advancements, even huge stockpiles of atomic bombs.

The solution now is the same as it always has been; the creation of a real feeling of brotherhood between all men. The only difference is the problem has become a great deal more serious in the last few years.

Perhaps this thing called brotherhood might merit a little extra thought next week—even by UK students.

Poll Shows Loyalty Oath Out Of Favor With Students

The loyalty oath is somewhat out of favor, according to the results reached by the ACP National Poll of Student Opinion taken recently throughout the country.

College students generally disapprove of such measures, especially graduate students.

Students in 63 colleges and universities were asked: In general, do you approve or disapprove of having college professors take an oath stating that they are NOT members of the Communist Party?

The results were: approve, 39 percent; disapprove, 47 percent; no opinion, 12 percent; and other alternatives, 2 percent.

The higher the student in school the more likely he was to disapprove, as the percentages ran to 56 percent and 55 percent for the juniors and seniors respectively. The graduate students ran the highest with 73 percent disapproving.

Comments range from cryptic retorts to fairly lengthy explanations. A sophomore from a west coast university, who disapproves, asks, "Is this a democracy?"

A junior coed in Education says she approves because loyalty oaths "protect the students" from harmful influence and propaganda. Another coed in Education, who opposes the oath, feels that "college students should be able to discriminate between education and propaganda."

A few of the schools polled do not fit into the general opinion pattern. A small military college in the south, for example, is 82 percent in favor of the loyalty oath.

The Students Speak

Believes Wrong Persons Hurt By SAS Action

Dear Editor:

To what end does the controversial SAS make "Gestapo" raids on tavern owners and reprimand students who illegally purchase alcoholic beverages? Minors, whether by subterfuge or otherwise, who buy a highball or a bottle of beer willingly violate the law, and that's "bad". Regardless of whether the law itself is just or unjust it must be rigidly enforced.

I must admit that my sympathy is with the respectable businessman, the honest retailer of this "bad alcohol". It is he who has hurt and not the purchaser (minor) of beer. Because of your actions, regardless of your motive, he has lost trade because he cannot afford to trust his clientele.

May I say to your protectors of the "meek and innocent", you'll never do much more than you have now—that is, to satisfy your own conscience. You'll never halt the sale of these beverages to minors and you'll never stop the desire to drink them. Still, I admire you. Too many people are saying that our generation of youth is decadent, that they are satisfied to sit and watch, and that they are not "fired-up" with a lot of progressive and reformative ideals. It's just that your efforts are fruitless. Too many of your fellow students are guilty of violating the controversial law to be of assistance in your fight. Not as long as any student can get away with forgery can you hope to cope with the situation. You see, you don't represent the student body, and the faculty does not approve your actions because of a small legal technicality. All you are fighting is an even smaller legal technicality.

Few people look on persons over 18 with disrespect because they have an occasional drink, and few fathers and mothers forbid people of college age to drink moderately. Your moral is good, but you don't represent a majority.

You cannot correct morals on a wholesale scale, and it's not your place to try.

The Stewpot by Dorman Cordell

Lawmakers Examine Mouth Of Well Known 'Gift Horse'

Recently, the boys down at the state legislature decided to honor UK with their presence at basketball games. So they prevailed upon Bart Peak, who seems to take his work seriously (an oddity among legislators), to wangle free passes for them.

Mr. Peak got the passes, but that didn't satisfy the boys. They came down the other night to see a game and what happened? They hollered like they had all been shot (which unfortunately is not the case) because Uncle Adolph did not give them uniforms and let them play the last half.

The next day, several of the great men raised the roof about the seats at the game. It seems Mr. Peak had got them seats quite a way from the playing floor, which were the only ones available on such late notice. In fact, the students didn't even stand up, put their hands over their hearts, and sing "God Save the Legislature," when these demi-gods walked into the Coliseum.

One of the legislators arose in wrath and said, "They may have quit shaving points, but they certainly shaved us." Others echoed his dissatisfaction. Did they thank Mr. Peak for getting them some kind of seats at such a late date? Never. They just complained.

A resolution was introduced to spend $100,000 to fumigate the Coliseum, after the legislators disapproved of the way the Wildcats played. We have a better suggestion. Spend the $100,000 to educate the citizens, so they will send some lawmakers to the Legislature.

As far as their criticism of our team was concerned, if the Cats played basketball like the Legislature legislators, they wouldn't score 10 points all year.

It seems a shame that while we have as many problems as we do in our wonderful Commonwealth, and while there are one-room schools and muddy roads and sick and underprivileged people and other things that make us have to say, "Thank God for Mississippi," our State Legislature, the lawmaking body of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, can find nothing better to occupy its time than criticizing the University because of the position of free seats supplied at a basketball game.

P.S. The legislator who made the nasty remarks about our team apologized the other day. (Some one must have threatened his health.)

Men, is some beautiful coed trying to persuade you to tie the knot? Does she reach out for your pin every time you hold her close? Does she always insist on stopping in front of every jewelry display?

Don't despair. You aren't alone in the world. There is a thing called the Bachelors Protective Association to look after you.

Now, this is no joke. Honest. And furthermore, the BPA has proclaimed Feb. 29 as National Bachelor's Day. The official announcement was made this week to the Association's 50,000 members by Robert W. Hensch, president.

Patt Hall, Alpha Gams Praised For Last Weekend's Dances

Well, now that all of you lucky kids are back from Florida and points east, west and north, let's see what's happening on the Great Campus.

First of all, congratulations are in order to the gals of Patt Hall on their terrific dance last Friday night. Decorated in the Valentine theme, the main parlor scarcely resembled the everyday "date" room. Dave Parry and his orchestra provided smooth music for the many dancers.

Congratulations also go to the Alpha Gams on their dance, also held last Friday. The dance was their Third Annual Cerebral Palsy Benefit and was held at Joyland. All proceeds will go to the local school for Cerebral Palsy children. The Troubadours from Frankfort provided the music and the UK Troupers gave a floor show during intermission.

Pi Kaps Sponsor Dance

Pi Kappa Alpha is again inviting everyone to attend their Second Annual All-Campus Dance tonight. Admission free, the dance will be from 8-12 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom. The Blue and White Orchestra will provide the music.

"The purpose of this informal dance," according to Charles Campbell, Pi Kap president, "is to bring about a more friendly association among all the students on the campus, whether they are Greeks or independents."

The first of these dances, in the spring of 1950, attracted over 500 people.

Sororities Elect New Officers

Beta Psi of Alpha Delta Pi elected Doris Trosky president for the coming year. Other officers elected include: Virginia Roberson, vice-president; Phyllis Hart, secretary; Ernestine Huston, treasurer; Mary Jo Reynolds, rush chairman; and Judy Henry, house president.

Kappa Sigma recently initiated Shelby Linville and Doug Holliday. Informal rush for the sororities began last Monday, with most of the sororities planning informal parties for the week. Rush for men closes today at noon. Fraternity rushing began after registration day.

New officers of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity include Jim Bogess, president; Joe Richardson, vice-president; George Burton, secretary; T. I. Glasscock, treasurer; John Monarch, house manager; D. Hollbrook, steward; Richard Bik, sergeant at arms; and Jim Bondurant, chaplain.

Edith Cones Heads Zetas

Edith Cones was elected president of Zeta Tau Alpha in elections held last week. Other officers include: Lee Dillon, vice-president; Lois Peterson, secretary; Lois Holland, treasurer; and Jan Oveigonne, historian.

Theta of Kappa Alpha elected Gardner Turner to fill the unexpired term of President Thomas Clore. Clore is graduating. John Baughman replaces Gardner Turner as vice-president. Both will serve until March.

Re-elected to the presidency of Phi Sigma Kappa was Don Richardson. Other officers include: Tom Timmons, vice-president; Charles Negley, secretary; Tom McHenry, treasurer; Wes Bird, sentinel; and Albert Taylor, inductor.

Todd Heads Lamp and Cross

Lamp and Cross, Men's Leadership Honorary Society, recently elected Bosworth Todd president; Read Holland, vice-president; James Lawson, secretary; and George Hagen, treasurer.

Richard Haas is the new president of Sigma Chi fraternity. Other new officers of the fraternity include: Henry Durham, vice-president; Jack Rinehart, secretary; and Herbert Richardson, treasurer.

(Due to semi-chaotic ???) conditions prevailing in the Kernel Office this week, the pinned list was lost. Therefore, "the list ain't what it had ought to be.")

Prize To Be Given For Book Collection

Each year a prize, made possible by the designation of a sum of money in the will of the late Judge Samuel M. Wilson, is offered to the undergraduate student who has built up the best personal collection of books.

The award has always been based on the quality rather than the quantity of the collection. Each participant is asked to submit three copies of a typewritten list of the books in his library.

The books should be listed alphabetically by the author's last name, followed by the forename or initials. The title of the book should be followed by the place of publication, publisher, and date.

The winner will be asked to present his library for examination by the committee and possibly for display. The award for this year is $25.

Book lists must be presented to the chairman of the committee, Room 402, Margaret I. King Library, not later than March 15. The award will be announced in time for the winner to be acknowledged on Honors Night.

All books listed must be the personal property of the student, and no books should be included which were received as gifts after Jan. 1.

Frats Low Grades May Cost Privileges

7. Have a tutoring system and enforced study hours for all who are deficient in their grades.

8. Have men with low standing counseled by the Personnel Office of the University.

"True Scholarship"
The creed introduced by the committee stated:

"We, as fraternities, do hereby recognize that one of the cardinal principles of our organization is to join together men with sincere interests in true scholarship. We do hereby state that, as individual fraternities, we will strive to develop the inspiration and desire necessary to enable each member to achieve high scholarship. We, as an Interfraternity Council, hereby declare that we will use our strength to bring about the highest possible scholastic rating for our member fraternities and our University, and that we will continually endeavor to bring about the proper relationship between fraternities and scholarship."

Help Week Announced
The second part of Help Week, the program designed to take the place of "Hell Week" for fraternities, will be held Saturday, Cayce announced at the meeting.

Four projects have been arranged thus far. They include work with the Girl Scouts, the Florence Crittenton Home, the YMCA, and a local orphanage.

They're both good basketball players. But if we were to judge them the way we judge telephone equipment, we'd take the small one.

You see, telephone equipment occupies valuable space, uses costly materials. Paring down its size helps keep down the cost of telephone service. Take voice amplifiers, for example. Telephone engineers put the squeeze on size, came up with a new small type. When 600 of these new amplifiers are mounted on a frame two feet wide and eleven feet high, they do a job which once required a roomful of equipment. Size was cut—but not performance!

This is one of many cases where the Bell System has made big things small to help keep the cost of telephone service low.

Human Traffic Jams Cause Mass Frustration In McVey

What McVey Hall needs is three or four good traffic lights. If you have a class in that entrenched stronghold of the English and Math Departments, you know what I mean. If you don't understand, you must not be in Arts and Sciences.

Having signed ourselves into a McVey class for the first time this semester, we reached this astounding conclusion, after losing our first battle of the bottlenecks.

During classes the narrow stairways look peaceful enough, but just let the bell ring—

Long streams of students pour out of classroom doors and flow down the stairs. They converge on the northbound traffic coming up the stairs. Anybody with a tin whistle and an old Boy Scout badge want to play traffic cop?

The line that didn't win the first attack gets longer and longer until it nearly reaches down to the bookstore. The winner continues coming endlessly down the steps; it looks as if it extends all the way up to WBKY's third floor aerial.

If you are in the stalled line going up as we were the other day, you watch the blur of faces wearing that blank, I-just-want-to-get-outa-

Jest Knappin'

By Paul Knapp

Here's a story heard recently on the campus.

"Say, Joe, did you hear what happened to Mike?"

"No, what happened to Mike?"

"He isn't here any more."

"Mike's gone, eh?"

"Yeah, we were walkin' across the campus the other day when he says to me 'I bet I'll rain tomorrow.' An SBI man overheard him."

Wife to drunken husband: Let's go to bed, dear.

Drunken husband: Might as well—I'll catch it when I get home anyway.

"Doesn't that little boy swear terribly?" remarked the little old lady.

"Yes, ma'am," commented the bystander, "but give him time, he's still learning."

"If you kiss me, I'll call a member of my family."

He kissed her.

"Brother!" she gasped.

"I didn't raise my daughter to be fiddled with," said the cat as she rescued her darling from the violin factory.

In addition to a fine for speeding, a local magistrate was reproving a man for his conduct, saying: "Furthermore, you must not use abusive language to an officer of the law by calling him a jackass."

"Your honor," pleaded the motorist, "would you object to my calling a jackass an officer?"

"Certainly not," smiled the judge.

As he turned to leave the motorist made this passing remark to the policeman who had arrested him: "Goodbye, officer!"

Party boy: "Wish we had a fifth for bridge."

Ditto: "You don't need a fifth for bridge, you dope!"

Party Boy: "O.K., then I wish we had a pint."

Depreciation Of Animals Discussed By Lawyer

Depreciation of thoroughbred animals, including horses, is discussed by a Lexington attorney in the current issue of the Kentucky Law Journal, being mailed this week.

Thoroughbred animals, whether horses, cattle, dogs, cats, sheep, or swine, as well as numerous other animals, may be depreciated when filing income taxes if held for the production of income or used in the trade or business, the author, Attorney Richard Lewis Mackay, says.

Though involved and subject to court and treasury interpretation, Attorney Mackay says that "the entire question of whether depreciation may be taken when thoroughbred animals are raised . . . is dependent upon whether or not the farm is operated for business or pleasure."

The basis for depreciation is that amount which, in accordance with some plan, will, at the end of the useful life of the depreciable property, equal the cost of the property, Attorney Mackay writes.

In the case of animals the depreciation is based upon the "useful life schedules" for the animals as set up by an advisory bulletin of the Treasury Department. For this purpose the life schedule of a horse is given as 10 years.

"The purpose of depreciation is to create a fund to restore the property, to the extent of the investment of the taxpayer, at the end of its useful life," Attorney Mackay writes, quoting from a 1942 case.

In another article the "attractive nuisance doctrine" which is sometimes applied to an incident in which a child is injured or killed while playing on another's premises, thus resulting in a damage suit, is held to show a tendency for limitation by Kentucky courts. Miss Norma D. Boster, a student contributor to the Journal, writes.

"While the court has shown no inclination to abandon the doctrine, or to make any fundamental changes in it, there appears to be a definite tendency on the part of Kentucky decisions to limit its application," Miss Boster writes.

Among the modifications of the law which the courts have upheld, Miss Boster finds the chief limitations to be the condition of the accident, the age of the child, the location of the accident, and whether or not necessary precautions have been taken to prevent an accident.

"The ultimate effect of this trend is that a middle-ground for the application of the doctrine has been reached, thereby making the doctrine more acceptable to all jurisdictions," the author says.

Delegates To Attend 'Political' Convention

UK is among 170 colleges and universities invited to send student delegates to Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri, March 20-22, to take part in mock political conventions.

Republican and Democratic conventions will be held simultaneously on the campus, 20 miles from downtown St. Louis. Well-known personages from both national parties will make addresses, and delegates will conduct their conventions in the traditional pattern.

Forty-eight colleges sent delegates to similar conventions four years ago, when Senators Robert A. Taft and Joseph C. O'Mahoney addressed the delegates.

POOR PAUL was having a fowl time. Even his best gal didn't give a hoot for him. "Wise he hate me so?" he asked his roommate. "Simple, you stuffy old bird—because your hair's always ruffled up! Better try Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. And does three things: Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. (Even limbers up your scalp. And helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test.)" Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a "Welling success. Tennessee Invades Tomorrow As Ruppmen Seek 24th Win

Vols Are Expected To Be Victim 108 On Lexington Court

Kentucky and Tennessee meet on the basketball court tomorrow night for the 87th time. Kentucky has won 67 and Tennessee 27.

Tennessee, always a dangerous opponent in any sport, sports only a 10-5 record overall and a 5-4 string against SEC opponents. The Spoilers came to Lexington in January of 1939 and handed Kentucky its last SEC home floor defeat, 30-29. Since then Coach Rupp's basketball aggregations have compiled a string of 54 wins against teams from the SEC on its home court.

The Volunteers, led by Capt. Tommy Bartlett, gave the Cats a scare in Knoxville a few weeks back by hanging on for a 65-56 loss.

The Cats will be after their 24th win in 26 tries and 109th victory at home. The game has been a sellout since Wednesday.

Hagan Tops Statistics
Latest statistics released by Ken Kuhn, sports publicity editor, seem to uphold Cliff Hagan's mention for All America honors. Cliff has made 178 field goals for 460 points and a 20.9 game average. He leads in number of rebounds by snagging 352 and among the regulars in free throws. He has attempted 152 and made 104 for 68.4 per cent. Bill Evans, reserve and regular guard, has the highest percentage with 25 for 33 and 75.7 per cent.

The dubious distinction for the highest number of personal fouls belongs to Frank Ramsey with 78. Hagan is running a close second with 72.

The team has amassed 1863 points to their opponent's 1215 and averaged 84.68 markers per game.

Ruppmen Ravage Tech And Grab SEC Crown

Coach Rupp's Raiders won a game and the SEC championship in a convincing 93-42 rout of Georgia Tech last Saturday night at the Coliseum. Bob Watson with 23 points and Cliff Hagan with 18 were the big guns in the demolition.

It was a matter of just too much as the reserves, led by Gayle Rose's 12 points, completed the game. Tech's 6'6" forward, Pete Silas, vanquished the Tech squad with 17 points. The Big Blue led 26-11, 42-21, 63-33 at the end of the first three periods before the reserves came in to finish the cleaning up process. Kentucky hit for 39.7 per cent and Tech for 25.7 per cent.

Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey, with 30 and 29 points respectively, led the Wildcats to a new Coliseum scoring record. The previous high was the 103 points scored against Tulane Feb. 4.

The Big Blue led by 27-18 at the end of the first period and increased this to 55-35 at intermission time. The Wildcats had a whopping 53.4 shooting percentage for their first half efforts. The final percentages were a nifty 44.5 for the Cats and 31.9 for the Maroons. The reserves played the entire third quarter and piled up 33 points on their own.

Captain Coy Vance contributed 18 points for the losers.

Door Open For UK As Tourney Site; Work To Begin Soon On Practice Field; Students Deserve Tryouts For Baseball

When Kentucky dumped Georgia Tech and L.S.U. defeated Tulane Saturday night, the Wildcats grabbed their ninth straight Southeastern Conference championship. The Cats are thus assured of a berth in the N.C.A.A. Regional Tournament to be held for the second straight year at Raleigh, N.C. Their opponent, in all probability, will be selected from an eastern at-large team.

The Cats defeated Louisville in the regional play-offs last season.

Kentucky had hoped to have Memorial Coliseum selected for the regional tournament this year but the N.C.A.A. tournament committee, headed by Dutch Lonborg, chairman and athletic director at Kansas, again selected the N. C. State gymnasium.

Behind the door conversions thumbs down on the U.K. offer because negro players had not performed on the Coliseum floor.

Participation by colored players with opponents of the Wildcats this season gives the tourney committee no excuse for overlooking the ideal conditions offered by the Coliseum.

Blue Grass fans seem to have a right to see their favorite club in a national tournament. Coach Adolph Rupp has led his teams to more national championships than any other team in the nation and it seems UK should be given every consideration as a tourney site next year.

Facilities at UK are far superior to those offered by Seattle, where the finals will be played this year. The tournament committee couldn't pick a better location for the 1953 finals than Lexington.

Director of Athletics Bernie Shively said work on the new football practice field will begin as soon as weather permits. The contract has been let and the contractors are just waiting for the ground to get in shape for bulldozing.

About five acres of land off Rose Street and near the Aeronautical Engineering Building is reserved for the field. Work on the field was set to begin last fall but experiments in corn growing were allowed to continue. Then inclement weather conditions delayed work.

There will be room for three regulation size playing fields on the new lot. Spring football practice will be held on the practice field beside Stoll Field but coaches hope the new field will be ready for fall practice.

Spring practice is scheduled to begin March 1 and will end April 1. Southeastern Conference rules allow 20 practice sessions within a period of 30 days. Coach Bryant said he wants to finish grid drills in time to allow the football players time to participate in one of the spring sports. Several of the grid stars fit into the baseball plans of baseball coach Harry Lancaster.

When the first call for baseball candidates sounds there will be a lot of boys sincerely interested in a tryout. They should be given a good chance to show their ability.

In the past years, baseball aspirants have reported to the practice field for a couple of brief workouts and then told they have been cut from the squad. The majority of positions have been filled by players of football or basketball.

This column has nothing against players of other sports who prove their ability at baseball. Some students, however, have more ability and greater interest in baseball than they have in other fields and should get every chance to play. More opportunities for professional play is offered by baseball than any other sport. College ball is one of the most direct routes to pro baseball. No player with sights set on a baseball career should be denied the opportunity to play in college without a thorough tryout.

A screening process could be established whereby every boy interested in baseball could compete for a position and determine for himself if he is capable of playing in the SEC league. It would be tough on the coaching staff and would require a longer period of practice but the desire of all concerned is to field the best possible team. Some members of a stronger team might be overlooked without a conscientious tryout.

It is hoped every boy interested in baseball will answer practice call and that each will be given every opportunity to prove his ability.

Taylor Is Elected At W.A.A. Meeting

Charlotte Taylor was elected vice-president of the Women's Athletic Association at a meeting held last Friday. She succeeds Louise Borie.

Ann Resznicco was named social chairman, replacing Lorine Beck. Nancy Lilly and Patsy Ridgion were named acting co-chairmen of High School Play Day, scheduled for Feb. 23.

Other members of W.A.A. council are acting as heads of other committees.

The intramural basketball tournament will begin Feb. 18.

It was announced Cohen and Newman of Tau Alpha Pi defeated Insko and Morris of Alpha Xi Delta in the finals of the W.A.A. ping pong tournament. A total of fifty-two doubles teams participated in the tourney.

The All Tournament team selected for the SEC tournament, has never failed to include a Kentucky player on the first squad. Since the beginning of the affair in 1933, a total of 61 Kentucky cagers have made the first and second teams.

Former Grid Stars Return To UK To Complete Studies

McDermott, Bruno, Yowarsky And Gain Back In School

By Don Armstrong

With the professional football season over, a number of Kentucky's former gridiron stars have returned to the University to put the finishing touches on their college educations.

Among those who have momentarily shed the trappings of the play-for-pay system are Bob Gain, Walt Yowarsky, Lloyd McDermott, all of whom earned their "K's" at tackle positions for the Wildcats, and Al Bruno, the high-scoring end.

McDermott, the senior member of the group, is working on his master's degree in education, and hopes to complete his studies by the summer session. Mac was drafted after his graduation in June of '50 to play for the Philadelphia Eagles, but stayed with that outfit only long enough to complete the pre-season exhibition series that season. He saw action with the Eagles when the then reigning champions bowed to the College All-Stars 17-7 at Soldier's Field in Chicago.

Yowarsky should complete his bachelor's degree in June, at the same time as Gain. The two have found a duplex apartment and are rooming together near Lafayette High School.

Al Bruno rounds out the list of former Kentucky players now completing their educations. He was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles and has been playing at his customary end position. Bruno distinguished himself at the University by leading the season scoring race for the Southeastern Conference in 1950.

Timothy, born three months ago in Covington, Ky., McDermott's home town.

Gain In Canadian League

Bob Gain, who decided to cross the border and play in the Canadian League, had an outstanding season with the Ottawa Rough Riders. The former All-American was among the high scorers of the conference, counting most of his 60-point total on conversions and field goals. He scored one touchdown when he blocked a punt and recovered the ball in the end zone.

Most of the time Gain played left tackle for the Riders, but his assignments varied from playing full-back and backing the defensive line to catching tackle-eligible passes. Bob was an All-Canadian selection and was picked as the outstanding lineman of the year, his first in professional competition.

In evaluating the play of the Canadians, Gain said that most of the players measure up very well with gridders from the United States. He added, however, that many of the linemen lacked grooming in the basic fundamentals stressed so heavily here in the States.

The Rough Riders posted a season record of seven wins and four losses, but rallied to win all four games of the playoff series for the Gray Cup, symbol of the Canadian football 1950.

championship. Gain said it was the first time in the 25-year history of the league that Ottawa had been able to capture the pro title.

Yowarsky A Redskin
Walt Yowarsky spent the past season with the Washington Redskins, third place winners in their division of the National Football League. They were fronted only by the champion Cleveland Browns and the New York Giants.

Yowarsky was used as a defensive end by the Redskins, a capacity he first performed in his final game for the Wildcats, that being in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's, 1951. He, along with Gain, played for the College All-Stars last August when the Browns dealt their amateur cousins a sound defeat.

Yowarsky should complete his bachelor's degree in June, at the same time as Gain. The two have found a duplex apartment and are rooming together near Lafayette High School.

Al Bruno rounds out the list of former Kentucky players now completing their educations. He was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles and has been playing at his customary end position. Bruno distinguished himself at the University by leading the season scoring race for the Southeastern Conference in 1950.

Call For Baseball Candidates Sounded By Coach Lancaster

Prospects Report For Brief Session Tomorrow At 2

By Marvin Poer

With the basketball season nearing an end and fond memories of the Cotton Bowl growing dimmer, the old familiar cry, "play ball," is just around the corner for hundreds of baseball loving fans who plan to watch the Wildcat nine in action this year.

Coach Harry Lancaster, who doubles in basketball as assistant to Adolph Rupp, will be at the reins for his third year. He served as head baseball coach in 1947, again in 1951, and will be in charge this year.

Although basketball is still in progress, Lancaster has had pitchers and catchers working out in the Coliseum for some time. These early birds and other pitcher and catcher prospects along with last year's lettermen are to meet in Coach Lancaster's office in Memorial Coliseum at 1 p.m. Saturday, February 16 for a pre-season pow wow.

First Squad Meeting Tomorrow
At 2 p.m. on the same day other interested prospects for this year's team are to meet with Lancaster for a briefing as to what will take place this year on the practice lot.

If the weather follows a pattern set in earlier years, the practice time out of doors prior to the opening game will be negligible. However, weather permitting, Lancaster plans to work out some sort of "B" squad schedule in order to give everybody a fair tryout before the season opens.

From the 1951 squad, who managed to win only eight of their scheduled games, only four lettermen will be returning. Frank Ramsey, currently starting with the SEC champions in basketball, leads the list. While playing the outfield last year, he led the team in batting with a fat .410 average for the season.

Larry and Harry Jones, a twin brother combination doubling in football, held down shortstop and second base respectively. Larry compiled a .355 batting average while brother Harry posted an average of .283.

Harry Stille, last of the returning lettermen, subbed behind All-America Dominic Fucci last year and finished the season with a neat .955 fielding average while operating behind the plate.

Evans And Gruner Among Prospects

Some fine prospects will be making their first appearance this year on the diamond. Among them are Bill Evans and Harold (Bunky) Gruner. Evans, a sophomore star on the basketball team, plays shortstop, while Gruner, a football performer, is said to be a top-notch pitching prospect. He is a right-hander.

Charles Keller and Jim Flynn, first base candidates, are now participating in freshman basketball. Miles Willard, Gene Neff, and Hugh Roe are other likely candidates for the team. Neff is a basketball performer and Willard plays football. Roe, a sophomore catcher, plays baseball only.

This year's team will be trying to better the record of the 1950 aggregation who recorded 16 wins against seven losses and one tie game. They advanced to the NCAA playoff's along with Alabama from the SEC and were downed by Wake Forest two games out of three. Catcher Dominic Fucci won All-American recognition that year.

Last year's team was riddled by injuries and the graduation of several key players, and were never able to win consistently at any time in the season. They finished with a dismal record of eight wins, 10 losses, and one tie. Their SEC record was 5-9-1 for the season.

In previous years the team has held their practice sessions on the American Legion diamond on the Harrodsburg Road. They will follow that pattern this year until low that pattern this year until some fine prospects will be making their first appearance this year on the diamond. Among them are Bill Evans and Harold (Bunky) Gruner. Evans, a sophomore star on the basketball team, plays shortstop, while Gruner, a football performer, is said to be a top-notch pitching prospect. He is a right-hander.

All Home Games At Stoll Field

All home games will be played on Stoll Field with week day games scheduled to get under way at 3 p.m. and Saturday tilts to start at 2 p.m. In the event of rain or other mishaps, a doubleheader will be played the following day or at another time later in the season when the schedule will permit. Starting time for doubleheaders will be 1:30 p.m. Admission to all of the home games will be twenty-five cents for children and fifty cents for adults. Students I-D cards will be recognized by the guards on the gates.

This year's schedule calls for six home games and ten tilts on the road. The complete schedule follows:

Fencers Lose To UL; Meet Illinois Today

An undermanned UK fencing team fell to the University of Louisville last Saturday 15-7.

University of Louisville's first victory over the Kentucky swordsmen since 1948 was sparked by veteran performers Charles Reese and Bill Long, with assistance from sophomore Bob Quinn. The Cardinals showed superiority in every weapon, winning the foil, 5-4; the epee, 4-0; and the sabre, 6-3.

Coach Scott Breckinridge's charges suffered the loss in the midst of a rebuilding program necessitated by the loss of seven varsity team members who failed to pass the required number of hours to be eligible. Four of these men were first string.

The UK scoring was led by Captain Bill Sellar with four wins, while Bob O'Nan, Tom Prater and Bob Southall won one each.

Illinois Invades Today

University of Illinois, considered one of the outstanding fencing teams in the nation, invades Kentucky's home court today and offers little hope to Coach Breckinridge. Illinois has reigned as Big Ten champ for the past two years and placed fifth in the NCAA tourney last year.

The Illinois fencers have a score to settle with UK. Last year, with only a few hours sleep and over half of the team unable to fence due to an auto accident, four Kentucky swordsmen came dangerously close to upsetting Illinois.

This year's meet with Illinois will be held today in Room 45, at 2:30, on the swimming pool side of Memorial Coliseum. Foil, electric epee and sabre will be fenced in that order. The meet is open to the public with no admission charged.

Illinois has held the Big Ten championship for the past two years and placed fifth in the N.C.A.A.

Golf Coach Owens Expects Good Year; Asks For Tryouts

Golf coach John Owens Jr., 1950 SEC golf champion, announced at the first meeting of the golf team Feb. 12, that 12 matches are already scheduled. He said when a complete schedule is released there will be 15 to 17.

Coach Owens said he is expecting a winning team from three returning lettermen and several good prospects. The three lettermen are Ches Riddle, Don Smith and Art Stoll. Much is expected from Charles Crabtree, Bill Holton, Bobby Strother, Lewis Flowers and Bob Hardy.

Owens also announced several weekly night meetings to discuss the team. The next meeting will be Feb. 26, at 7 p.m. in the Coliseum.

SAYING GOODBYE. All American quarterback Vito "Babe" Parilli (right) says goodbye to the jersey he wore in the Cotton Bowl and the number which he made famous. Chuck Tilley, Kernel sports editor, who made the original suggestion that the number be retired, assists Parilli as the jersey is put in the trophy case in the east end of the Coliseum. The Kentucky Babe was named the "Outstanding Young Man of Lexington" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce recently.

Babe Parilli Is Selected City's 'Young Man Of 1952'

Lexington's "Outstanding Young Man of 1951" is Vito (Babe) Parilli, Kentucky's All-America quarterback.

That title was bestowed upon the Babe at a dinner given Monday night by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the annual selection of the city's leading young man. Parilli, whose home is in Rochester, Pa., was selected for the honor by a committee of older men.

It was the first time a University student ever received the honor.

Fred B. Wachs, general manager of the Lexington Herald-Leader, one of the committee members, announced Parilli's selection and presented the winner with a key to the city. Other committeemen were W. Emmet Milward and Lynn E. Grogan. Donald E. Buchanan was the Jaycees contest chairman.

Parilli, who ended his college career by quarterbacking the Wildcats to their 20-7 victory over TCU in the Cotton Bowl, was cited at the dinner for his qualities of leadership and for the manner in which he has represented the University, the state and the city.

Downing Resumes Tennis Post He Originated At UK In 1922

By Bill Podkolski

Dr. H. H. Downing, head of the mathematics department at UK has been named coach of the varsity tennis team by the University's athletic department to succeed Andy Payton.

Dr. Downing is returning to coach the sport he organized at the University in 1922. The first tennis team organized was called the UK Tennis Club and Dr. Downing served as faculty advisor and professor of tennis, arranging the team's first schedule.

In 1924, tennis was made a minor sport and Dr. Downing was appointed tennis coach. He served in this capacity for 25 years, resigning in 1946.

Holds 14-2 Edge Over Vols

The team began making trips in 1929 and every spring since that date they have challenged all comers. Coach Downing stated that his jinx was Alabama and not Tennessee. The team played Alabama four times while he was tutor, losing every meet. During that 25-year period, his teams boasted a 14-2 record against Tennessee.

Coach Downing Calls For Tennis Players

Tennis Coach H. H. Downing announced there will be a meeting of the varsity tennis team Tuesday, Feb. 19, at 4 p.m. in Room 104 of McVey Hall. All persons interested in playing varsity tennis are invited to attend.

DR. H. H. DOWNING
Tennis Coach

Kentucky's record for the 25 years of tennis under Coach Downing is 140 wins, 73 losses, and four ties. In honoring the fine work of Coach Downing, the UK Board of Trustees named the tennis courts on the campus "The Downing Courts".

Dr. Downing has been a tennis enthusiast for many years but stated he never competed in any big tournament play. Except for small city and faculty tournaments, he has confined his tennis to a social game.

Played Basketball At UK
Besides being a tennis enthusiast, Coach Downing played center on UK's basketball team in 1907-08, was a champion high jumper in 1908, and was physical education director in 1913.

He graduated from UK in 1908 with a Bachelor's Degree in Civil Engineering and began teaching at the University in the fall of the same year. He received his master's degree in mathematics in 1916 and his doctor's degree in 1929 at the University of Chicago.

Since 1946, UK has had three tennis coaches; Dan Dickerson, 1947-48, Ray Durham, 1948-49, and Andy Payton, 1950-51.

The 1952 schedule, so far, lists Tennessee (April 5) and Vanderbilt (May 4) in Nashville. Tentative games are Berea, Centre, Western Kentucky, and Cincinnati, but Downing said it would take several weeks to get a complete schedule worked out.

Team Of Professors Among Pin Leaders

Five UK professors teamed to go into second place in the men's City Handicap Bowling Tournament Tuesday night at Blue Grass Lanes.

The team, composed of faculty members Victor Portmann, Journalism; J. R. Todd, Agronomy; John S. Harrison, Agronomy; Clair S. Waltman, Horticulture; and Carl Schneider, Physics, bowled for a combined score of 2902.

Schneider bowled a single game of 221 to take high one-game honors at that point in the tournament.

The team bowls under the name of Triple X.

Englis Charges Groza Talked Him Into Fix Deal

By Earl Cox

Nick (The Greek) Englis, who is now under indictment for allegedly bribing Kentucky and Bradley basketball players to control the scores of games, charged that he was talked into fixing games by Alex Groza in a "tell-all" article in the current issue of True magazine.

In his story (which was told to Jimmy Breslin) Englis said Groza approached him to get Englis to figure out some way he and Groza could make some money on the cage games. Englis calls the ex-Wildcat all-time great "the greediest guy on two feet," and Ralph Beard, a fellow who loved to go over the point spread but was afraid to go under. Dale Barnstable, the third ex-Cat under indictment for allegedly taking part in the scandals which rocked college campuses all over the nation, Englis said, was a nice guy who would do anything Beard and Groza asked.

Played Football At UK
Englis is a former University student who played football under both Ab Kirwan and Bernie Shively, the present dean and athletic director, respectively, when they were coaching the Wildcats.

Englis was still here when Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant took over the coaching reigns, but reportedly was called from the team soon after Bryant started practice. In his article in True, Englis said he didn't like the way Bryant was running the team, told him so and quit the squad.

Englis tells of the various games that were fixed, how much he and his cohorts bet and how much they paid the players. He also tells of the time when the fixes backfired and they almost went broke.

Englis ends his story with a word of advice for the colleges and college presidents.

"Guys like me," he said, "nearly ruined basketball as a major spectator sport in this country. I fervently hope the game will receive some benefit from my story."
